

RISK DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

We hereby draw your attention to and invite you to read carefully the following risk disclosure statement and ask questions and take independent advice if you wish. Please contact us if you wish to receive the Chinese version of the Risk Disclosure Statement. In case of any conflict between the English and Chinese versions, the English version shall prevail. If you have any questions, please contact us at support@stashaway.hk.

These risk disclosure statements are not and are not intended to be a complete list of all the risks and considerations relevant to any investments, transactions or services to be provided, or your investment decision or decision to engage in any such transactions or services.

You must be aware that investments may involve a high risk of loss. In light of the risks, you should invest, undertake such transactions, or engage such services only if you understand the nature of the investments or investment mandates and the contracts (and contractual relationships) into which you are entering as well as the extent of your exposure to risks.

You should carefully consider whether the investments, transactions or investment mandates (as the case may be) are appropriate for you in light of your experience, objectives, financial resources and other relevant circumstances. Prior to investing, entering into a transaction or entering into an investment mandate (as the case may be), you should consult your own legal, regulatory, tax, financial and/or accounting advisors or such other professional advisors to the extent you consider it necessary and appropriate.

Risk of Securities Trading

The prices of securities fluctuate, sometimes dramatically. The price of a security may move up or down, and may become valueless. It is as likely that losses will be incurred rather than profit made as a result of buying and selling securities.

Risks of Client Assets Received or Held outside Hong Kong

Your client assets could be held by us or through our broker or custodian or other persons outside Hong Kong.

Client assets received or held by us outside Hong Kong are subject to the applicable laws and regulations of the relevant overseas jurisdiction which may be different from the Securities and Futures Ordinance (the "SFO") and the rules made thereunder. Consequently, such client assets may not enjoy the same protection as that conferred on client assets received or held in Hong Kong under the SFO, the Securities and Futures (Client Money) Rules (Chapter 571I of the Laws of Hong Kong) and the Securities and Futures (Client Securities) Rules (Chapter 571H of the Laws of Hong Kong).

Transactions in other Jurisdictions

Transactions on markets in jurisdictions other than Hong Kong ("Foreign Jurisdictions"), including markets formally linked to a domestic market, may expose you to additional risk. Such markets may be subject to regulation which may offer different or diminished investor protection. The value of, or income deriving from, investing in Foreign Jurisdictions may be more volatile and less liquid than investing in Hong Kong and could be adversely affected by changes in currency rates of exchange, foreign tax practices, foreign laws and regulations, government policies and the local and/or international political environment.

Before you invest or enter into a transaction or investment mandate, you should enquire about any rules relevant to your particular transaction or investment mandate as well as the nature or risks of such investment or investment mandate. Your local regulatory authority will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where your transactions or investment mandate have been entered into or effected. You are responsible for enquiring and ensuring that you are aware of the details about the types of redress available in both your home jurisdiction and other relevant jurisdictions before you invest or enter into a transaction or investment mandate. In addition, there may be restrictions for non-residents, repatriation of capital investments and profits and there may be withholding or additional forms of tax.

You should only undertake transactions or investments in the markets of any Foreign Jurisdiction if you understand the nature of transactions or investments in such Foreign Jurisdiction, and the extent of your exposure to risks. In particular, investing or transacting in the markets of Foreign Jurisdictions may not be regulated by the Hong Kong regulators and may not be covered by the investor compensation fund established under the SFO. Further, the recovery of the monies invested and any profits or gains may be reduced, delayed or prevented by exchange controls, debt moratorium or other rules and regulations imposed by the relevant government or regulatory bodies in the Foreign Jurisdiction. You should carefully consider if the transactions or investment mandates are suitable having regard to your financial situation, investment experience, risk tolerance (including the risk of loss of capital), investment objectives and any other factors as you consider relevant. You should seek independent professional advice as you see fit before making your decision.

For transactions in which your money, securities and/or any other assets are held with any bank, exchange, depositary, clearing house, broker, agent, intermediary or any other institution in any Foreign Jurisdiction ("Foreign Institutions"), in the event of insolvency of the Foreign Institutions, the applicable legal and regulatory regime might be different from that of Hong Kong. In those situations your money, securities and/or any other assets may be treated differently from the treatment which would otherwise apply if your money, securities and/or any other assets were held in Hong Kong. We will not be liable for any loss, damage, liability, cost, claim or expense arising from or in connection with the insolvency, acts or omissions of any such Foreign Institutions.

In the event of insolvency of any Foreign Institution, there is a risk of a shortfall arising on the money, securities and/or assets available to meet your claim as a creditor, and any of your money, securities and/or assets held with a Foreign Institution may be subject to a security interest, lien or right of set-off in favour of such Foreign Institution.

An overseas-listed investment product* is subject to the laws and regulations of the jurisdiction it is listed in. Before you trade in an overseas-listed investment product or authorise someone else to trade for you, you should be aware of:

- The level of investor protection and safeguards that you are afforded in the relevant foreign jurisdiction as the overseas-listed investment product would operate under a different regulatory regime.
- The differences between the legal systems in the foreign jurisdiction and Hong Kong that may affect your ability to recover your funds.
- The tax implications, currency risks, and additional transaction costs that you may have to incur.
- The counterparty and correspondent broker risks that you are exposed to.
- The political, economic and social developments that influence the overseas markets you are investing in.

These and other risks may affect the value of your investment. You should not invest in the product if you do not understand or are not comfortable with such risks.

*An "overseas-listed investment product" in this statement refers to a capital markets product that is listed for quotation or quoted only on overseas securities exchange(s) or overseas futures exchange(s) (collectively referred to as "overseas exchanges").

1. This statement does not disclose all the risks and other significant aspects of trading in an overseas-listed investment product. You should undertake such transactions only if you understand and are comfortable with the extent of your exposure to the risks.

2. You should carefully consider whether such trading is suitable for you in light of your experience, objectives, risk appetite, financial resources and other relevant circumstances. In considering whether to trade or to authorise someone else to trade for you, you should be aware of the following:

Differences in Regulatory Regimes

- (a) Overseas markets may be subject to different regulations, and may operate differently from approved exchanges in Hong Kong. For example, there may be different rules providing for the safekeeping of securities and monies held by custodian banks or depositories. This may affect the level of safeguards in place to ensure proper segregation and safekeeping of your investment products or monies held overseas. There is also the risk of your investment products or monies not being protected if the custodian has credit problems or failures. Overseas markets may also have different periods for clearing and settling transactions. These may affect the information available to you regarding transaction prices and the time you have to settle your trade on such overseas markets.
- (b) Overseas markets may be subject to rules which may offer different investor protection as compared to Hong Kong. Before you start to trade, you should be fully aware of the types of redress available to you in Hong Kong and other relevant jurisdictions, if any.
- (c) Overseas-listed investment products may not be subject to the same disclosure standards that apply to investment products listed for quotation or quoted on an approved exchange in Hong Kong. Where disclosure is made, differences in accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards may also affect the quality and comparability of information provided. It may also be more difficult to locate up-to-date information, and the information published may only be available in a foreign language.

Differences in legal systems

- (d) In some countries, legal concepts which are practiced in mature legal systems may not be in place or may have yet to be tested in courts. This would make it more difficult to predict with a degree of certainty the outcome of judicial proceedings or even the quantum of damages which may be awarded following a successful claim.
- (e) The SFC will be unable to compel the enforcement of the rules of the regulatory authorities or markets in other jurisdictions where your transactions will be effected.
- (f) The laws of some jurisdictions may prohibit or restrict the repatriation of funds from such jurisdictions including capital, divestment proceeds, profits, dividends and interest arising from investment in such countries. Therefore, there is no guarantee that the funds you have invested and the funds arising from your investment will be capable of being remitted.
- (g) Some jurisdictions may also restrict the amount or type of investment products that foreign investors may trade. This can affect the liquidity and prices of the overseas-listed investment products that you invest in.

Different costs involved

- (h) There may be tax implications of investing in an overseas-listed investment product. For example, sale proceeds or the receipt of any dividends and other income may be subject to tax levies, duties or charges in the foreign country, in Hong Kong, or in both countries.
- (i) Your investment return on foreign currency-denominated investment products will be affected by exchange rate fluctuations where there is a need to convert from the currency of denomination of the investment products to another currency, or may be affected by exchange controls.
- (j) You may have to pay additional costs such as fees and broker's commissions for transactions in overseas exchanges. In some jurisdictions, you may also have to pay a premium to trade certain listed investment products. Therefore, before you begin to trade, you should obtain a clear explanation of all commissions, fees and other charges for which you will be liable. These charges will affect your net profit (if any) or increase your loss. Counterparty and correspondent broker risks

- (k) Transactions on overseas exchanges or overseas markets are generally effected by foreign brokers who have trading and/or clearing rights on those exchanges. All transactions that are executed with such counterparties and correspondent brokers are dependent on their respective due performance of their obligations. The insolvency or default of such counterparties and correspondent brokers may lead to positions being liquidated or closed out without your consent and/or may result in difficulties in recovering your monies and assets held overseas.

Political, Economic and Social Developments

- (l) Overseas markets are influenced by the political, economic and social developments in the foreign jurisdiction, which may be uncertain and may increase the risk of investing in overseas-listed investment products.

Currency Risk

The underlying assets may comprise transactions in foreign currency-denominated contracts. The profits or loss in such transactions (whether they are traded in your home jurisdiction or another jurisdiction) will be affected by fluctuations in currency rates where there is a need to convert from the currency denomination of the contract to another currency. Exchange controls imposed by the relevant authorities may also adversely affect the applicable exchange rate and result in the receipt of a reduced principal.

Trading facilities

Electronic trading facilities for electronic trading are supported by computer-based component systems for order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. Your ability to recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by the system provider, the market, the clearing house and/or participant firms. Such limits may vary: you should ask us for details in this respect.

Electronic Trading

Trading on an electronic trading system may differ from trading on other electronic trading systems. If you undertake transactions on an electronic trading system, you will be exposed to risks associated with the system including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any system failure may be that your order is either not executed according to your instructions or is not executed at all.

Additional Risks Relating to Exchange Traded Funds (“ETFs”)

Market risk

ETFs are typically designed to track the performance of certain indices, market sectors, or groups of assets such as stocks, bonds, or commodities. ETF managers may use different strategies to achieve this goal, but in general they do not have the discretion to take defensive positions in declining markets. You must be prepared to bear the risk of loss and volatility associated with the underlying index/assets.

Tracking error

Tracking errors refer to the disparity in performance between an ETF and its underlying index/assets. Tracking errors can arise due to factors such as the impact of transaction fees and expenses incurred to the ETF, changes in composition of the underlying index/assets, and the ETF manager’s replication strategy.

Trading at discount or premium

An ETF may be traded at a discount or premium to its net asset value. This price discrepancy is caused by supply and demand factors, and may be particularly likely to emerge during periods of high market volatility and uncertainty. This phenomenon may also be observed for ETFs tracking specific markets or sectors that are subject to direct investment restrictions.

Foreign exchange risk

Investors trading ETFs with underlying assets not denominated in Hong Kong dollars are also exposed to exchange rate risk. Currency rate fluctuations can adversely affect the underlying asset value, also affecting the ETF price.

Liquidity risk

In respect of ETFs traded on an exchange, Securities Market Makers (“SMMs”) are participants of the exchange that provide liquidity to facilitate trading in ETFs. Although most ETFs are supported by one or more SMMs, there is no assurance that active trading will be maintained. In the event that the SMMs default or cease to fulfill their role, you may not be able to buy or sell the product.

Counterparty Risks Involved in ETFs

Full replication and representative sampling strategies

An ETF using a full replication strategy generally aims to invest in all constituent stocks/assets in the same weightings as its benchmark. ETFs adopting a representative sampling strategy will invest in some, but not all of the relevant constituent stocks/assets. For ETFs that invest directly in the underlying assets rather than through synthetic instruments issued by third parties, counterparty risk tends to be less of concern.

Even where collateral is obtained by an ETF, it is subject to the collateral provider fulfilling its obligations. There is a further risk that when the right against the collateral is exercised, the market value of the collateral could be substantially less than the amount secured resulting in significant loss to the ETF.

It is important that you understand and critically assess the implications arising due to different ETF structures and characteristics.

Depending on the jurisdiction, this may affect your ability to recover the funds deposited in the trust account. 7.3 You acknowledge that where your monies are held with such bank, custodian, other financial institution and/or otherwise passed on to an Intermediary, as described in clause 8.1 of this Agreement below, the manner in which your monies may be held in different entities may be different. 7.4 In addition, we may hold monies received on your account in an omnibus customer trust account together with monies that we hold for other customers. This means that such monies in the trust account will be commingled with the monies of our other customers. Without prejudice to clause 7.1 of this Agreement, the risks of this commingling is that it is administratively and operationally difficult, if not impossible (in view of the constant fluctuation of the aggregate balance in such account), to account separately for each of our customers' respective interest due on their respective cash balances in the omnibus customer account as interest will be received on an aggregate basis. 7.5 In the event of insolvency of the bank, custodian or other financial institution holding the omnibus customer trust account, you understand that you may not be able to fully recover your monies. Further, as your monies are commingled with those of other customers in the same account, you may potentially be exposed to the losses of other customers. 7.6 We shall only pay monies in the trust account belonging to you to bank accounts belonging to you (i.e., bank account in your name maintained with an authorised banking institution under the Banking Ordinance (Chapter 155 of the Laws of Hong Kong) in Hong Kong, or a bank account in your name maintained with a bank which is supervised by a banking regulator in a jurisdiction specified by us from time to time (as applicable)). You agree that to the extent	We will arrange for Investments to be purchased through brokers. In some cases, we may purchase Investments such as units of collective investments schemes through scheme managers or fund managers. We will enter into such arrangements with such Intermediaries in our name. If we have to take any action against these Intermediaries to ensure that we can perform our duties under the Agreement, you agree to indemnify us if these actions are taken in good faith. You also understand that

In some situations, we may also enter into these sale or purchase of Investments with you and in so doing, we will act as principal not as agent. You agree with the aforesaid transaction between you and us or our connected persons. You further acknowledge and agree that where we sell or purchase Investments on your behalf, we may do so by selling or purchasing from Intermediaries, our other customers and/or such other third parties as we may deem suitable as part of our management of your portfolio.	Currently, we have opened a securities brokerage account with Saxo Capital Markets Pte. Ltd. ("Saxo"), which is authorised to carrying business in both dealing in securities and providing custodial services for securities in Singapore. We will use your monies maintained in the trust account referred to in the clause above to buy and sell Investments on your behalf through this account with Saxo, which is a consolidated account we use for all our clients. Saxo in turn has an arrangement with Citibank, N.A. to hold Investments which we buy and sell, and an arrangement with Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation Limited, Singapore Branch ("HSBC") to hold the monies we transfer to them for the purchase of Investments and monies to be transferred to us for the sale of Investments and return (which will then be transferred to our trust account referred to in the clause above). HSBC is currently licensed to carry on banking business in Singapore. The aforesaid arrangement is subject to changes as we may determine from time to time without prior consent and notice.
8.4 You shall indemnify us against any and all action which we deem in good faith necessary to ensure that we will not be in default of our obligation or responsibilities under this Agreement. 8.5 In view of the fact that we may have accepted principal responsibility and/or liability to Intermediaries, you also acknowledge and consent to the fact that, to the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, there is a risk that such Intermediaries may regard any Investments which we purchase on your behalf, as investments which we purchase for ourselves. This may in some instances result in prejudice to you. For example, there is a risk that the Intermediaries may attempt to use your Investments to satisfy our obligations or obligations of our other customers. You accept that this is a necessary risk of dealing in such jurisdictions through us.
8.6 You agree that neither us nor our Intermediaries shall provide any margin facility to you in respect of the Investments.
8.7 Without prejudice to any other provision in this Agreement and the Client Securities Standing Authority, you agree that:
(a) we may, whether directly or indirectly (through brokers/ custodians/ nominees/ exchanges/ clearing houses ("Custodian") or otherwise), hold Investments purchased for you in an omnibus custody account, aggregated with other Investments of our other customers, and/or the customers of these Custodians, and such Investments may not be held in your name. This means that your Investments will be commingled with the assets of our other customers and/or the customers of these Custodians. Given such commingling, the Investments may be registered collectively in our name, the name of the

Custodian, a sub-custodian and/or any other third party and your entitlements may not be identifiable as separate certificates, titles or electronic records. You agree that if there are any dividends, interests, rights, benefits or other proceeds in relation to your Investments resulting from such commingling, we shall have full discretion as to the allotment of such dividends, interests, rights, benefits or other proceeds; (b) In the event of insolvency or default of the Custodian, you understand that you may not be able to fully recover your Investments held in the omnibus custody account. Any shortfall in the Investments may be shared among you and our other customers and/or the customers of the Custodians pro rata. As your Investments are commingled with those of other customers in the same account, you may potentially be exposed to the losses of other customers; (c) provided that we have selected or engaged such Custodian in good faith, to the extent permitted by Applicable Laws, we shall not be liable to you for any and all Losses suffered or incurred by you as a result of any act, omission or insolvency of such Custodian; (d) where Investments are denominated in a foreign currency, the Investments may be held in an omnibus custody account with an entity which is licensed, registered or authorised to act as a custodian in the country or territory where such Investments are held. In such case, you understand that the laws and practices relating to custody accounts in the relevant jurisdiction may differ from the laws and practices in Hong Kong. Such differences mean that your Investments may not enjoy the same level of protection as accorded to Investments that are held in Hong Kong. Depending on the jurisdiction, this may affect your ability to recover the Investments deposited in the custody account; (e) your Investments may be treated as fungible with other Investments in the omnibus custody account and therefore, we are not obliged to deliver any specific Investments to you and may instead sell the Investments at your expense and transfer to your Account the proceeds of such sale (if any). 8.8 You acknowledge that where your Investments are held with different Intermediaries and/or appointees of our Intermediaries, the manner in which your Investments may be held in different entities may be different.	collective investment scheme.
